1984 . . .

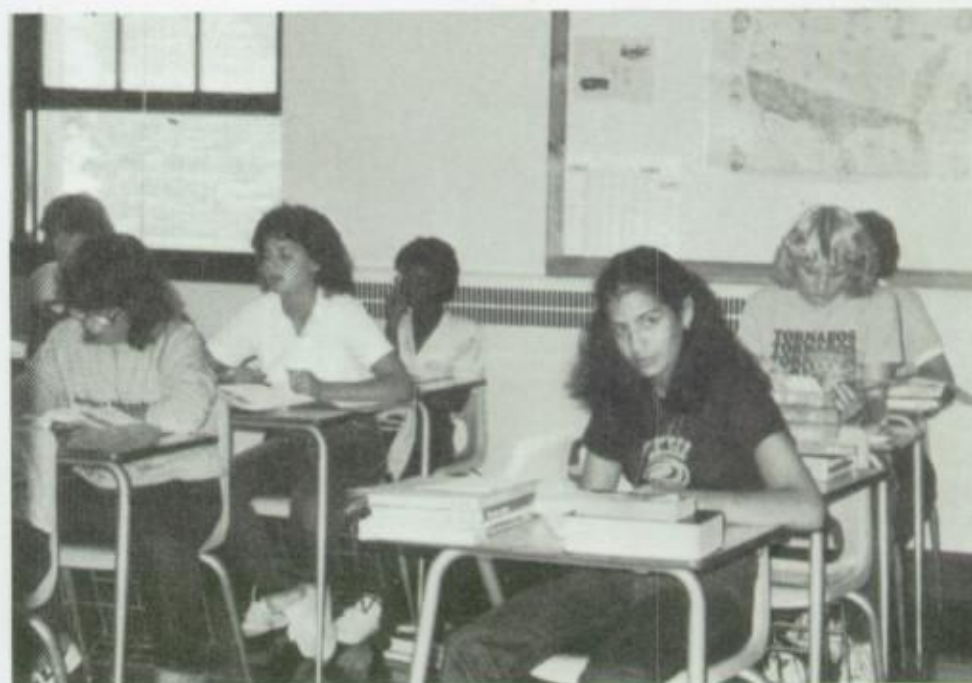

Not Just Another Year

A Year Of . . .

During the year students really hit the books, and the Class of '84 became the first at Keyser High to have three National Merit Semi-Finalists.

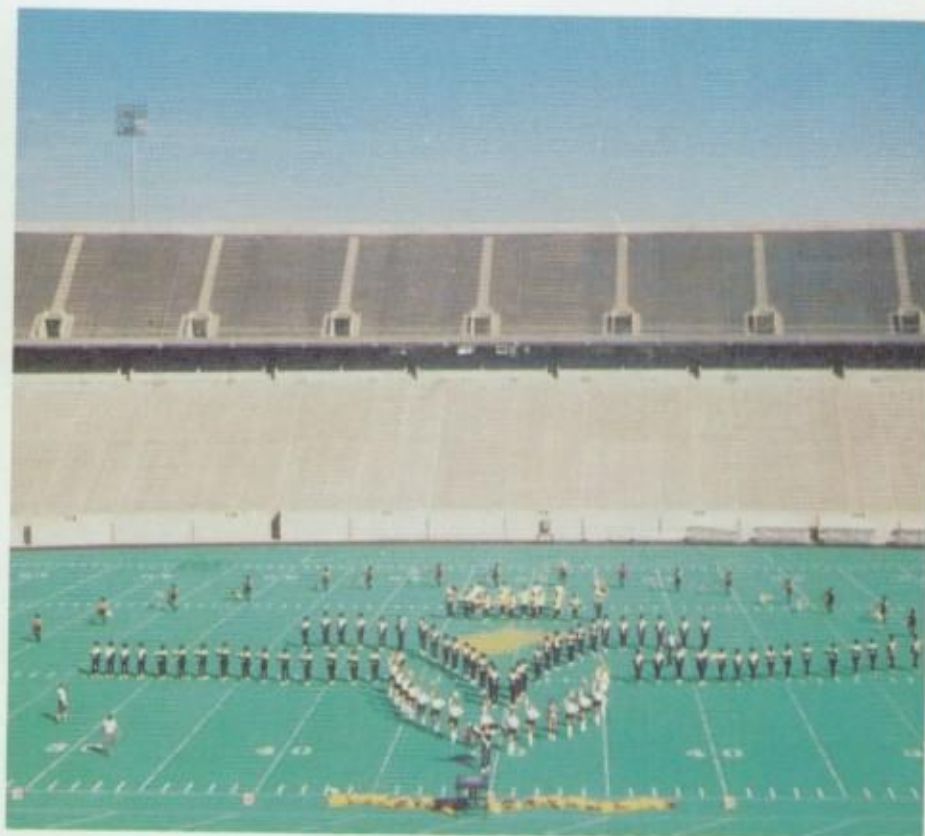

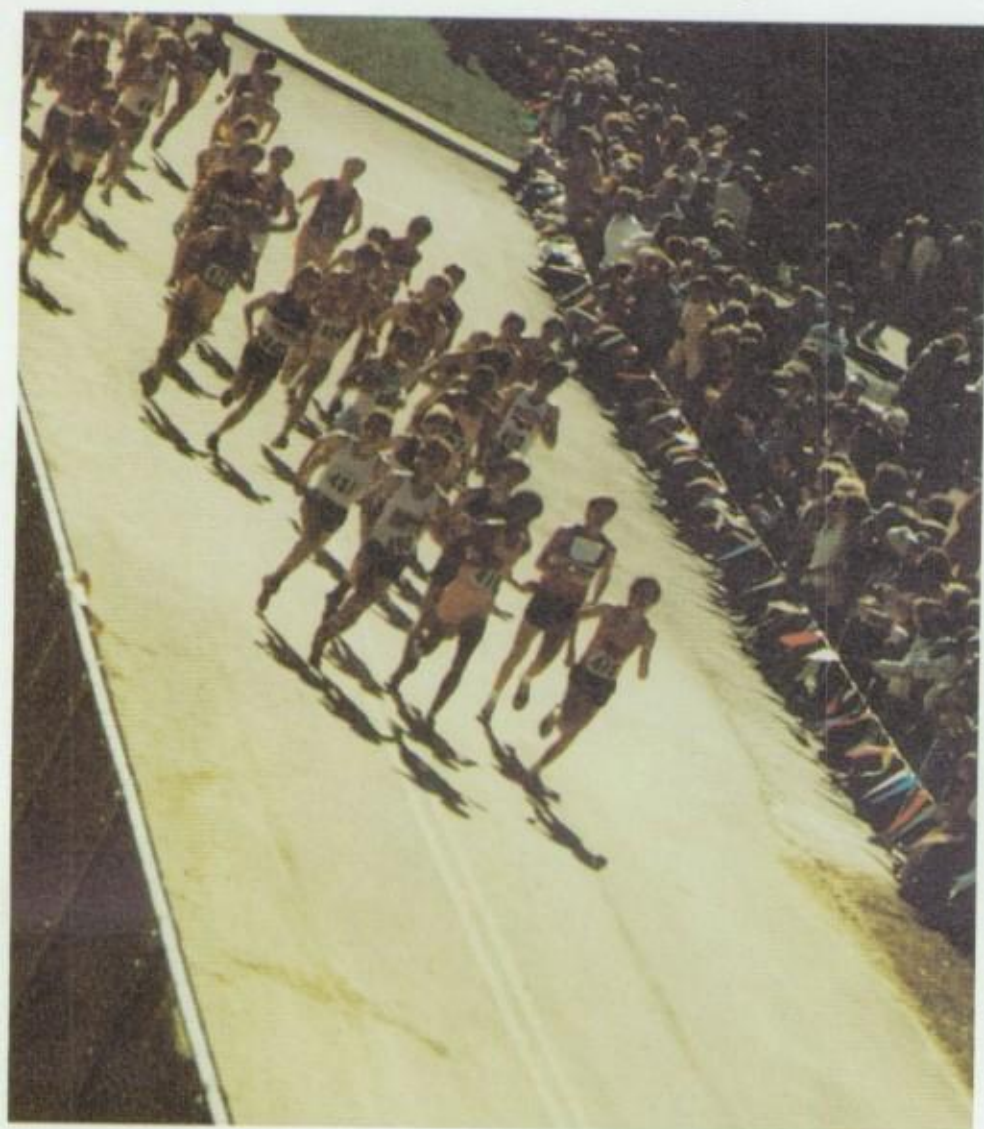

Academic Achievement

A Year Of . . .

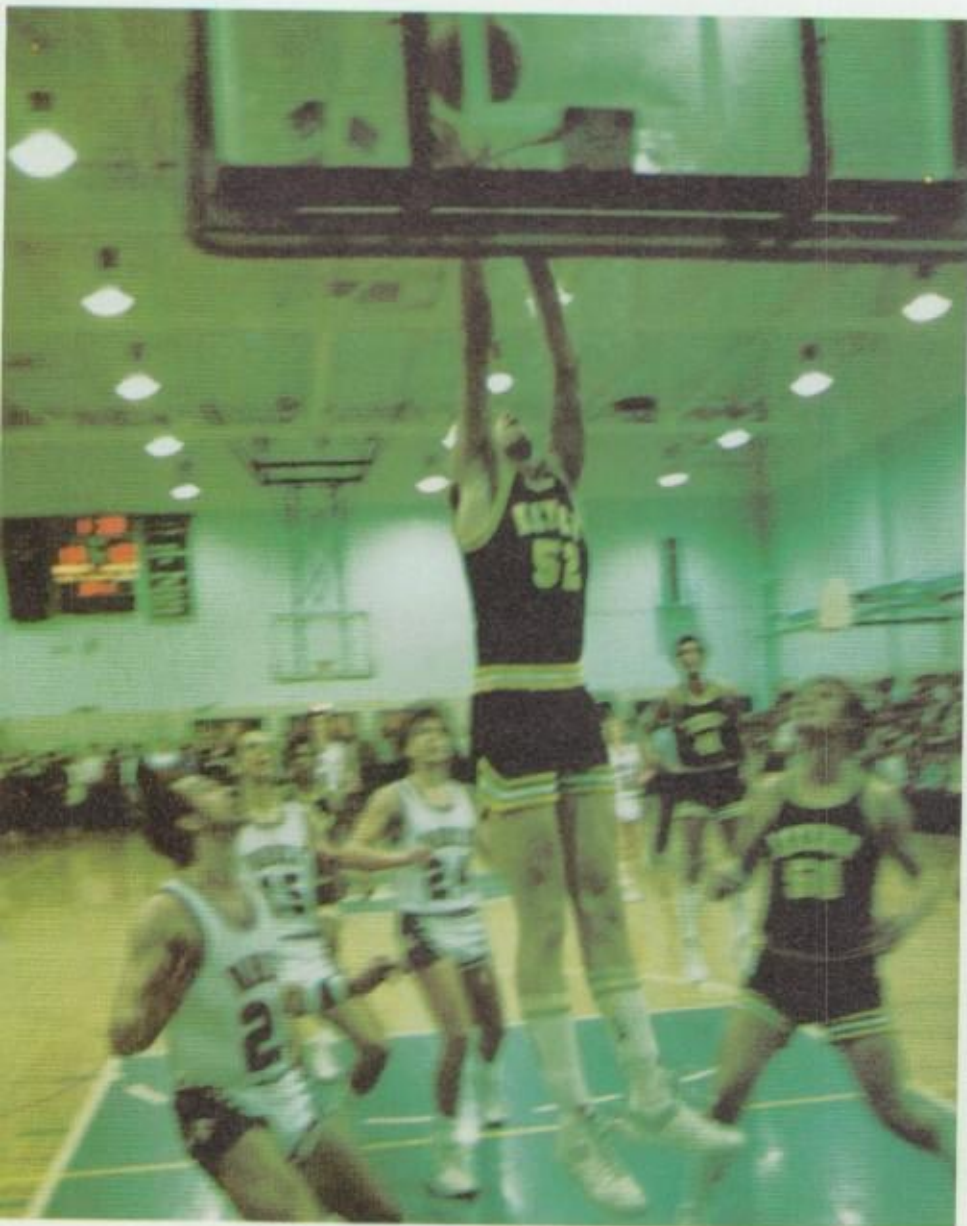

Spirited "Lumberjack Attacks"

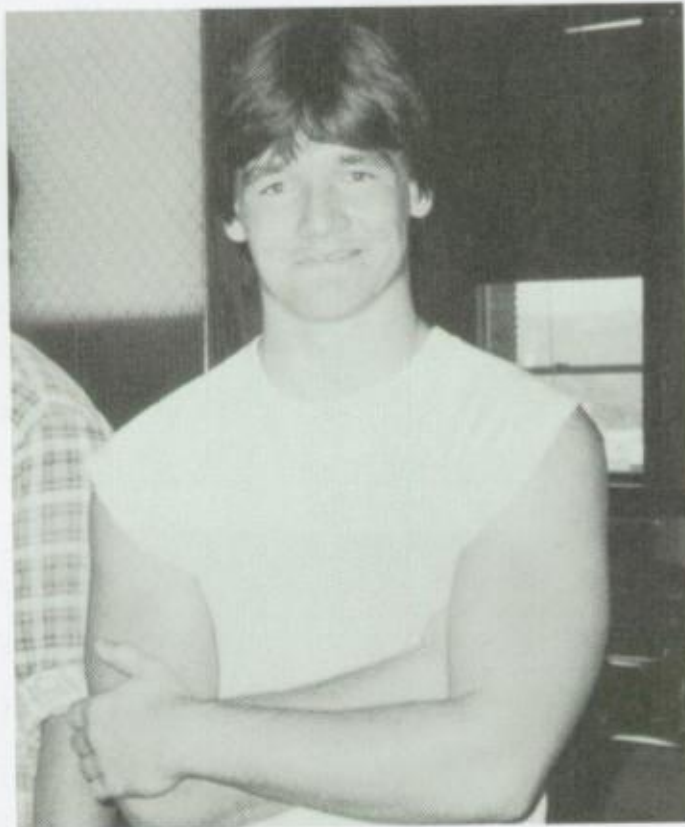

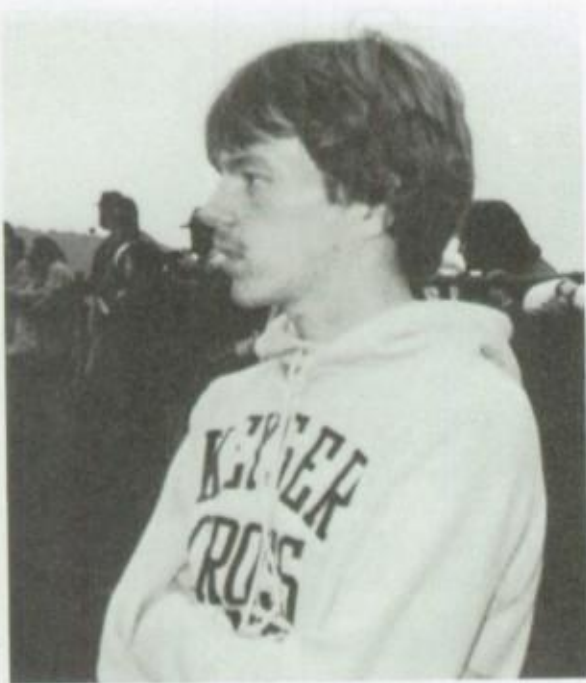

Showing support for the "Mighty Tornado," many students wear school colors — black and gold.

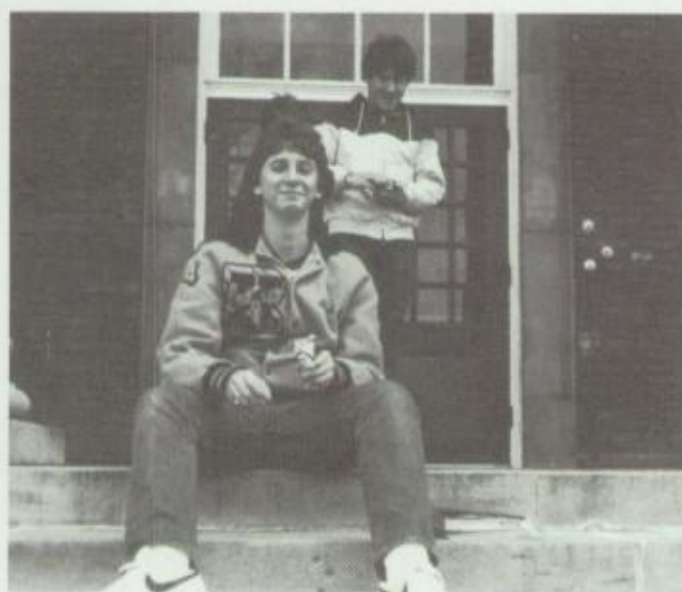

Credit for support must also be given to the "Lumberjacks" who, wearing flannel shirts and jeans, cheered until their throats were sore. The "Lumberjack Attack" will be remembered by teachers, coaches, and students as a highlight of 1984.

Nineteen Eighty Four

Class Of _____

1984

Orwellian Prophecy for Humanity

As we started our senior year, we were surprised at not feeling any different than we had any other year. World, national, and local events commanded our attention, however, and made it a year to remember.

The seriousness of the times caused seniors to take a good look at the course of their lives. We witnessed the downing of the Korean Airliner 007, along with troubles in Grenada and Lebanon — Americans feared war. The movie The Day After caused us to consider the possibility and implications of nuclear war.

Seniors, realizing that the elections of 1984 would be their first chance to decide in whose hands the fate of the country should rest, took time to learn about the candidates running for president. Ronald Reagan headed the Republican list while Walter Mondale, John Glenn, and Jesse Jackson sought the Democratic nomination.

Locally, we ran to the opening of 'our hometown Pizza Hut.' The restaurant was a cool place for "driving" seniors to go for lunch, but most of us still traveled to LaVale after the Harvest Ball and Prom to avoid underclassmen crowds.

On weekends, we went to ball games and Video Village. However, the hot spot on weekends continued to be the Armory dances.

The switch to one lunch period provided us with very long lunch lines. Most of us found ourselves wishing for senior privileges at around 11:30 every morning. At the same time, we chastised underclassmen who had to fill seven periods for next year instead of six.

Distinguishing the class of 1984 from previous years was the diversity of the class members. Instead of being one body of "seniors," we formed small groups of friends. However, with the coming of spring, we managed to become a unified force and shared our last days at K.H.S. as "one." We showed in everything we did that 1984 was not just another year!

1984, Not Just Another Year . . .

The first moment of our long-awaited (1984) was welcomed on icy streets of the area in many ways. Some classmates danced at the Armory "New Years' Dance," while others celebrated privately.

With the arrival of January, basketball season was in focus. Our highly rated basketball team gave the students a lot to cheer about. A group of senior guys got together and formed the cheering "Lumberjacks." Although the Lumberjacks started with few members, the idea spread quickly and soon a section of the bleachers was filled with flannel shirts, bandannas, boots and big mouths.

As spring arrived, we caught hold of fleeting memories on occasions such as Ed Kelley, Miss Golden Tornado XXXX, the Prom, Class Night, and Graduation. These activities meant much more to us than they had any other year. This once again showed us that 1984 was not just another year.

Scott Visits Australia

I guess one of my biggest concerns when I returned from Australia was would I fit in with my classmates? The answer was yes, but it took me a while to figure out why. For the first time in my life, I actually had something interesting to share with my classmates.

When I returned I was showered with questions about my AFS year. I was really shocked. Classmates were asking me to speak to their clubs, and many teachers were showing interest in my year. I really wasn't sure what my AFS year's long-term rewards were going to be, but after a few short weeks at home, they started taking shape.

My knowledge of Australia came in handy in everything from speeches to songs. My year wasn't completely a bed of roses. At times I would have done anything to get home. The main reason I made it through the year was the letters of support I received from my classmates. They made my moments alone in Australia not so lonely.

To my many friends and classmates at Keyser High School, I express a sincere thank you for your support.

"You done good, mates."

Prom Night '84 . . . Just You and I

After the hard work of choosing the prom theme, finding a band, and decorating, prom night finally arrived. Magic was created with colors of turquoise and pink, as couples danced to the music of Major Striker. To top off the evening John Miller and Robin Fertig sang the theme song, "Just You And I." Eventually the couples dispersed and all that was left were the decorations for the next day's clean up crew and special memories for those who were there.

Joy Fout Reigns Over Homecoming '83

Tornado Pride — Shining Through. Homecoming '83 revealed the spirit, pride, and enthusiasm of many Keyser High School students. Heading off Spirit Week was the second annual Homecoming Olympics in which numerous candidates participated in strenuous activities such as jello slurping, football throwing and catching, and many others. Finally, when all the activities were over, Debbie Walker was announced the winner of the sporting event. Continuing with Spirit Week, students at KHS had opportunities to show pride by dressing up on Wild Dress Day; Sweatsuit-Pajama Day; Wild Hair Day; Hat, Tie, and Glasses Day; and, lastly, Black and Gold Day. Concluding Homecoming '83 was the crowning of Homecoming Queen during halftime at the Keyser-Beall game. Joy Fout was crowned Miss Homecoming XXXIX, and Keyser nipped Beall, 10-7 — an exciting finale!

S. Sgt. J. Edward Kelley, a 1941 graduate of Keyser High School, was killed in action in World War II on January 31, 1945. He was subsequently awarded the Medal of Honor.

For this reason, Keyser Lodge 662, Loyal Order of Moose, sponsors the annual Kelley Memorial Awards Program. Initiated in 1946, the award is presented to the young man who most closely identifies with the character of S. Sgt. Kelley. A wristwatch is presented to the winner and appropriate awards for the runners-up. Each nominee also received a scholarship from the 78th Lightning Division — Edward Kelley's division.

Extends Hands Across the Sea With Doug and Martha

Martha Becerra traveled to us from Colombia and Doug Wilkie from Scotland. Throughout the school year they exchanged with us their ideas and shared with us their cultures. Martha made top ten in our Miss Golden Tornado Pageant, while Doug took great interest in Key Club activities. Both of them shared good times with us and created many happy memories. We say goodbye through teary eyes, hoping someday we will see them again.

At the convention in Beckley, W. Va.

Because We Care

Key Clubbers this year enjoyed one of the club's most productive years ever. Under the leadership of Pres. Harry Shank, the club became the most active one at Keyser High.

One project, Toys for Happiness, raised over $1100. Shank and VP Adam Lee spearheaded this drive.

1984 also marked the last year that John Harvey would serve as advisor. His work with the club was rewarded when he received the highest award given in Key Club — the Father McCallister Memorial Award.

Gaining Experience for the Future

Receiving training at Martinsburg.

Preparing for inspection

Air Force ROTC provides many students at KHS with a background in space, aviation, and the fundamentals of aircraft navigation. Along with this comes a training in marching and drilling.

Members are also given the opportunity to participate in many of the various parades that occur in the area. They also participate in many school events, including football games and the J. Edward Kelley Memorial Awards Program. For the program, the cadets practice for many hours to perfect their roll call and the presentation of colors.

Some of the cadets will proceed to training in the military, while many do not. However, those who do receive military training usually have a rich background that the ROTC has provided for them.

A Rebuilding Year

Hot summer days and sore muscles started the season in August for the Golden Tornado, as the team began conditioning. The Tornado hit the back playground to run laps, sprints, and jump benches. Excitement as well as dedication surrounded the team as the Tornado worked toward the Falcon kickoff.

The road was a long, hard-fought journey for the Varsity 11, but the Tornado kept winding, and the fans still cheered. Mike, Tim, Todd, David, Drew and Petie, along with other seniors, had a lumberjack attack every Friday before each game. (This boosted everyone's morale.)

This 2-8 season will never be forgotten, but neither will the motto: We've just begun to fight!!!

Hopes of State

The 1984 girls' basketball season started with a new coach, fun times, and high hopes. With a lot of experience and determination, the girls set out for a winning season. The first win over Hampshire made the chances of a post-season win look good. New plays were learned, but hilarious bus trips and practices ended with the 41-36 loss to Hampshire in the Sectionals. Seven seniors said good-bye to high school basketball and remaining underclassmen looked forward to their next season.

Keyser Girls Win Region II Championship

The 1984 girls' volleyball team started the first day of practice with the hopes of going to Regionals. A sisterlike atmosphere was present each day of practice and during every game. The last tournament was at Franklin, where the KHS girls had to defeat Circleville and Frankfort to advance to the regional competition. And that's what they did. Then it was off to Regionals at Morgantown, where the winning continued as Keyser defeated Bridgeport and Frankfort to capture the Region II championship. This was the first year that the team had a winning record, went to Regionals and even on to state.

Coach Ann Stuck was named coach of the year and Robin Fertig and Kris Naylor were named to the All-PVC volleyball team.

As we, the Varsity Cheerleaders, look back at the year, we tend to feel a sense of achievement and pride. Our practicing began early in June, and we never gave up until our plans for State were cancelled in late March. We attended camp at Hood College, led many cheers, boogied to Space Cowboy, and maintained spirit. Now as we turn in our pom poms and uniforms, we realize that cheerleading is a memory that can never be forgotten. As the juniors look forward to another year, the seniors hold on to the treasured moments of the past.

Campside Companion

Big Red is still the perfect answer for camping, fishing or any venture into the wilds. For 1984 the ultimate utility machine has gotten even better. Already bristling with functional features that put it at the top of the working class, Big Red has now gained additional versatility with shaft drive and reverse capability. Other tried-and-true features include a 192cc four-stroke engine, with dual-range five-speed transmission and automatic clutch, easy electric starting, hydraulic forks, heavy duty front and rear racks, a standard trailer hitch, and much more to ease your load.

The paper that roars.

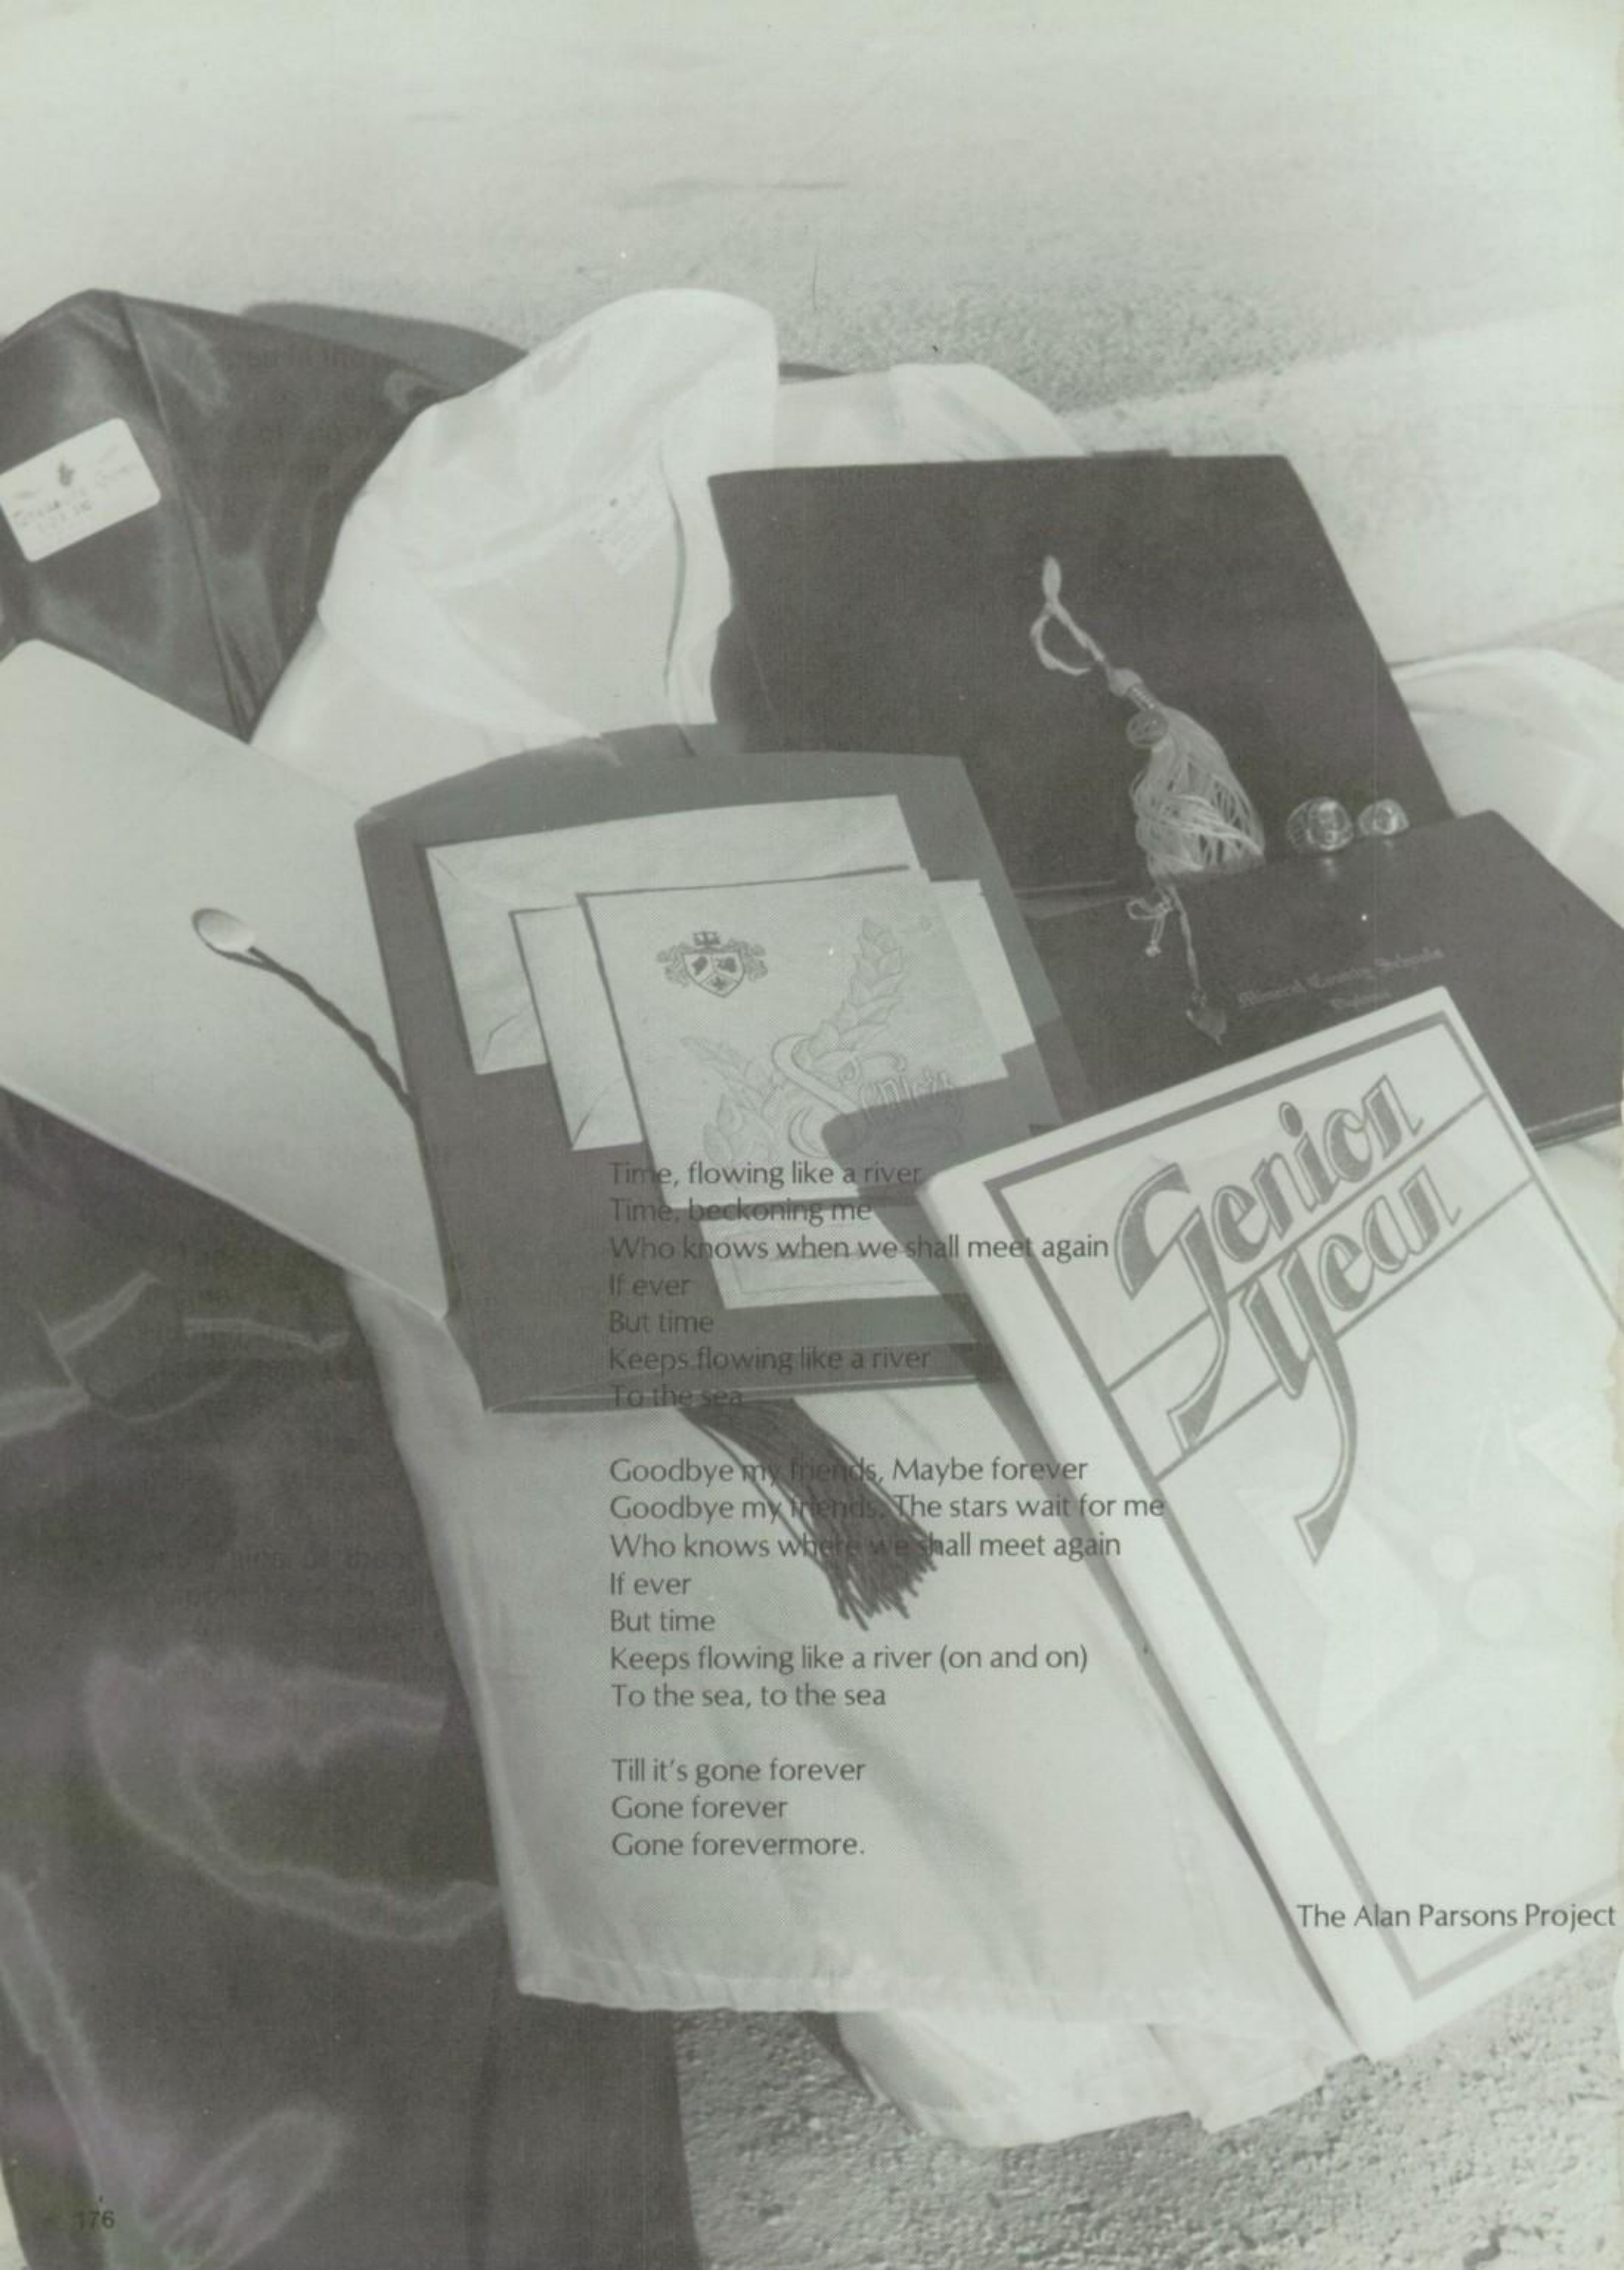

Westvaco makes it.

Many people know us as a "paper company." But did you know that Westvaco printing paper is among the finest fine paper made? And it roars it out every day. To millions of people in dozens of national magazines. And in books, brochures, annual reports and hundreds of other publications.

The reason Westvaco printing paper roars is because it captures every subtle detail of the printer's art—tone, texture, color, mood. Whether it's the Mona Lisa or modern art. And it does it without a hitch on virtually any kind of press, at virtually any press speed.

So, no matter which way you look at it—as a reader or a printer—Westvaco fine paper performs like a tiger. It roars! As your neighbor, we thought you'd like to know.

Westvaco

Time, flowing like a river
Time, beckoning me
Who knows when we shall meet again
If ever
But time
Keeps flowing like a river
To the sea

Goodbye my friends, Maybe forever
Goodbye my friends, The stars wait for me
Who knows where we shall meet again
If ever
But time
Keeps flowing like a river (on and on)
To the sea, to the sea

Till it's gone forever
Gone forever
Gone forevermore.
